

GENERAL CASS.

The Louisville Journal, of the 30th ult., takes a hearty but admirable glance of the political tergiversations of the nominee of the "harmonious Democracy." From it we take the following extract, which we trust will be read by all into whose hands this paper may fall. Its length should deter no man from carefully perusing it.

The party now called on to support Gen. Cass pretends to be a party of principle. Will any one of them please to tell us what principle of their party is identified with Cass? Is it the Sub Treasury or free trade? Is it opposition to a National Bank? Neither. Gen. Cass has been in public life and public pay about thirty years, and where is the truth or principle he has maintained the service he has rendered to the country? There is not a man of any pretension to talent now or heretofore in public life for half that period that has not done more for the great principles of political faith he professed. But Gen. Cass, whilst he has treated principles with so much neglect, has been a most anxious and slavish devotee of power. Whenever he has found himself on the weaker side he has made all haste to abandon it. Hence, if the account of his political youth is true, he forsook ancient Federalism, came out to the West where the use of his black cockade was unknown, and in due time was appointed Indian agent in Michigan. He supported Mr. Adams whilst he was President, but when defeated he passed over to Jackson. Jackson put him in office as Governor of Michigan and Indian agent, and afterwards made him Secretary of War. In that department, however, he did not suit Old Hickory, and was therefore sent to France to get clear of him. In 1840 the Whigs were victorious. Gen. Cass, although then in Paris, began to manifest the warmest personal regard for Gen. Harrison, and wrote certificates to vindicate his military reputation from the assaults of Cass's own party; and when Harrison died, General Cass undertook to be deeply grieved, and actually celebrated in Paris the President's death, with funeral ceremonies and delivered a eulogy himself, things which no other foreign minister from this country ever felt himself called on to do before or since. But Cass's object was obvious and was well understood here; it was laughed at by the Whigs and cursed by the men who are now called on to support him. Why, the thing went so far that it was even proposed to bring Gen. Cass over and run him as a party man to succeed John Tyler.

From his letter to the Indian convention of '43, it is hard to tell whether he is for free trade or protection; now we are told he goes for free trade. When the Annexation of Texas was proposed, he was against it, but quickly he came round in favor of it when he thought it popular. He came out for the Wilcox provision at first, but when the South determined to resist it, Gen. Cass turned against it in words, for he tells his friends that his object can be accomplished in another way. When in France, Gen. Cass, with his habitual subservience to power, whatever it may be, wrote a large book on the court of Louis Philippe, full of flattery of that monarch. Now is it not beautiful for a convention Democratic par excellence to nominate for President of the model Republic of the world the flatterer and panegyrist of Louis Philippe, and that too in three short months after the French despot was hurled from his throne by the republicans of France? It is true that Gen. Cass now in speeches glorifies the French revolution and denounces Louis Philippe when he is in opposition. But let us ask how long it would have taken to overthrow Louis Philippe if Democrats had all written such books in his praise as Gen. Cass.

Behold then the candidate of the progress—the man who has never made a speech or written an article in favor of any of the political principles of his party, but who has found time to deliver funeral orations in favor of a Whig President and write a large volume in praise of a French despot and his court. These are the recorded labors of General Cass's intellect; these are his services to the country and his party—these are his claims to the highest of his country's honors.

If this war should go on, if the treaty fails, Cass is pledged to the conquest of all Mexico, and with such a man in the control of the hundreds of millions of money that must be borrowed, to carry on such a war and the officers in his power to bestow, our system would become as corrupt as that of the great model of Gen. Cass, Louis Philippe, whose policy in the conquest of Algeria, Cass evidently copies in that of conquering Mexico.

The Barnburners of New York have called a Convention to convene at Utica on the 22d inst., for the purpose of nominating candidates for President and Vice President. The Old Hunkers, although they did not vote in the Convention, support Cass and Butler.

Col. Johnson has withdrawn from the canvass for Governor of Kentucky.

The Charleston Mercury, the organ of the South Carolina Democracy, in allusion to Gen. Cass's sympathetic book in praise of Louis Philippe, calls him "Louis Cass."

MARRIAGES.—An Eastern paper gives out the following notice to "all whom it may concern":

"All notices of marriages where no bride cake is sent, will be set up in small type, and placed in some outlandish corner of the page. Where a handsome piece of cake is sent, it will be placed conspicuously in large letters—but when gloves or other favors are added, a peace of illustrative poetry will be given in addition. When, however, the editor attends the ceremony in propria persona and kisses the bride, it will have a special notice—VERY LARGE TYPE, and the most appropriate poetry that can be begged, borrowed, stolen, or coined from the brain editorial."

Mr. Cass, a Northern man, has got up a set of principles for the South, but he overlooks the West. His two faces point one North and the other South. He utterly opposes the improvement of Western rivers, and it will be seen that the Baltimore Convention expressly denies the power to make any such improvements.—Lou. Journal.

OUT GENERAL.—A Locofoco says that the Baltimore Convention has out-generaled the Whigs. It is very true that the Whig Convention may not place two generals on the Whig ticket, but it would be easy for them to select a single one with more fame and glory than ten generals of such generals as the Baltimore Convention has named.—Lou. Journal.

CONFESSION.—Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills are the best medicine in the world; because they cleanse and purify the body of those morbid humors which, if lodged in the cuticle, are the cause not only of yellow or swarthy complexion and roughness of the skin, but of all kinds of eruptive diseases. Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills aid and improve digestion, as well as cleanse and purify the blood, and therefore give health and vigor to the whole frame, which in turn, will be sure to give a clear and healthy complexion.

Beware of Counterfeits.—THE ONLY ORIGINAL AND GENUINE INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS HAVE THE SIGNATURE OF WILLIAM WRIGHT WRITTEN WITH A PEN ON THE TOP LABEL OF EACH BOX. None other is genuine, and to counterfeit it is forgery. The genuine is for sale by BOON, TALBOT & SMITH, sole agents for Fayette; D. C. CHAMBERLAIN, Champion's Mill; S. CARROLL, Glasgow; FELIX REDDING, Keytesville; M. T. ATKINS, Brushfield; and wholesale and retail by HENRY BLAKESLEY, St. Louis. Office and general depot, 169 Race Street, Philadelphia.

Beware of travelling impostors.

DIED.—On Thursday morning last, of Scarlet Fever, SAMUEL, son of David H. Witt, aged two years.

Monthly Bulletin No. 6.

THE SARSA-PARILLA COMPOUND of this Company is almost literally a sulphate of Sarsaparilla. So highly concentrated is it that the dose is but the half of a very small teaspoonful, while the dose of that which is sold in large bottles is nearly a wine glass full. In addition to Sarsaparilla it contains a powerful concentration of Mandaraka, Burdock, Queen's Delight, Elder, Yellow Dock, Guaiacum, and other important medicaments which are not found in any other preparation.

THE QUEEN'S DELIGHT, which forms an essential ingredient in the Graefenberg Sarsaparilla Compound, is probably superior to Sarsaparilla itself. Professor Frost of Charleston, S. C., speaks of it as follows in the Southern Journal of Medicine and Pharmacy:—"Two vegetable productions exhibit more power upon the system generally. So powerfully is its action exerted upon the capillary and secreting vessels in changing their morbid states or conditions and disposing them to a new healthy action, that it is greatly to be preferred, &c. &c."—He further adds, "that it is in chronic diseases and chronic inflammations, and also in the long train of consequences that follows syphilis, that its efficacy is best exhibited."

The superiority of the Graefenberg Sarsaparilla Compound may be thus stated:

1st. It is composed of a number of the most efficacious vegetables in the whole range of the Materia Medica in addition to Sarsaparilla.

2d. These are so highly concentrated that there are many more doses in the bottle than in any of the other largest bottles advertised.

3d. This concentration renders it to Sarsaparilla what Quinine is to Peruvian Bark. The more diluted preparations are no better than ordinary root-beer; souring on the stomach and spoiling in the bottles. To use a weak infusion of Sarsaparilla when a sulphate of the article may be had, is like taking bark instead of Quinine, or like travelling in a scow against a strong current instead of in a swift steamer.

These things being so, let all who have made up their minds to use any Sarsaparilla, use that of the Graefenberg Company. It is warranted to be ten times more efficacious than any other known; no matter how large the bottle or extravagant the advertisements. As SPRING MEDICINES, the Graefenberg Vegetable Pills, the Graefenberg Health Bitters, and the Graefenberg Sarsaparilla Compound supercede all others. For universal use the Pills and Bitters are of incalculable value. Those who take them need not fear the enervating effects of the summer which is at hand.

Men Die of their Prejudices!

There have been thousands doubtless, who suffered disease to destroy their happiness here, and even life itself, rather than resort to the use of what are generally styled "Patent Medicines;" no matter what health-improving virtues these may have possessed. Accustomed to hear a cry against these remedies, they choose to deprive themselves of the happy benefits they might have received from them, and vainly endeavor to bolster up their falling condition by the ordinary patiens of the day, which were less efficient, though perhaps more fashionable and costly. But we rejoice that these fruitful prejudices are fast losing their sway over the minds of the people, by the many truly wonderful cures performed by the successful combination of medical agents for the removal of all diseases of the lungs and chest, DR. WIS-TAR'S BALM OF WILD CHERRY. Sold by DR. SNELSON, Fayette; DR. HENDERSON, Glasgow; MALONE & GARTIN, Huntsville.

DISSOLUTION.—The partnership heretofore existing between the undersigned was dissolved by mutual consent, on the 25th instant.

TO THE LADIES.

"Long hair is a glory to woman," says Paul, and all feel the truth of the Pious quotation; Preserve it then, ladies—your glory may fall, unless you protect it with this preparation.

If you wish a rich, luxuriant head of hair; free from dandruff and scurf, do not fail to procure the Genuine Balm of Columbia. In cases of baldness it will more than exceed your expectations. Many who have lost their hair for twenty years have had it restored to its original perfection by the use of this balm. Age, state or condition appears to be no obstacle whatever; it also causes the fluid to flow with which the delicate hair tubes is filled, by which means thousands (whose hair was gray as the Asiatic eagle) have had their hair restored to their natural color by this invaluable remedy. In all cases of fever it will be found the most pleasant wash that can be used. A few applications only are necessary to keep the hair from falling out. It strengthens the roots, it never fails to impart a rich glossy appearance, and as a perfume for the toilet it is unequalled; it holds three times as much as other miscalled hair restoratives and is more effectual.

Caution.—Never buy it unless you find the name of Comstock & Co., Proprietors, on the wrapper of each bottle, or you are cheated with a counterfeit article.

WRIGHT'S Indian Vegetable Pills in the City of Mexico—Great success among the Volunteers—Letter from a High Sheriff of South Carolina!

Extract of a letter from the editor of the Greenville Mountaineer, S. C.

Dr. W. Wright—Dear Sir:—... A week or two ago I sent you a Mountaineer, containing a letter from one of our Volunteers in the City of Mexico, in which he pays WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS, under the circumstances, the highest meed of praise I have ever known a medicine to receive. The Volunteer, William G. Goodlett, Esq., is a gentleman of fine standing—an accomplished and well educated man, and was recently

HIGH SHERIFF

Of this District. By one of your advertisements in a Charleston paper, I happened to notice the location of your office, and thought you might extract an article of some value in regard to your medicine, therefore I sent the paper.

The following is an extract from the letter referred to above:

"My health is very fast improving. I procured a few days ago, some of Dr. Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills, and they have acted on my system

LIKE MAGIC!

This it appears that the brave and patriotic Volunteers who have gone to Mexico, to defend the rights and honor of their country, already begin to realize the extraordinary value of this incomparable medicine. Long life to them!

HORRIBLE MISTAKES!!

Are sometimes made by confounding one medicine with another; and administering the wrong article. Equally horrible are those mistakes which are made in supposing that all Pills are alike, and that therefore, if it is indifferent which are taken, and if one kind is bad all are bad to gether. This is a very great mistake. There is as much difference between Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills and other articles, as between mid-night and noon-day. We do not wish any one to take our word merely for this statement. Let any one, having taken other medicines, try this—Nothing more will be necessary.

Many persons have been led away by a COATING OF SUGAR, as if they anticipated that it would remove the nausea of the medicine. But they are generally mistaken. Without the SUGAR those articles would have nothing to recommend them, and would not be sold a single day. But with the sugar, and by giving the article a name similar to Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills, they gain a temporary notoriety. Wolves they are in sheep's clothing, of whom the public should steer sufficiently clear.

Let it be remembered that WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS are prepared with special reference to the laws governing the human body; medicine, they are always good, always useful, always effective in routing out disease. Every family should keep them at hand.
